PRODUCTION

CMYK uses halftones of the colours Cyan, Magenta, Yellow and Key (Black) layered on top of one another to create other colours. For example, by using halftones of magenta we can create a pink colour, if this is then layered on top of halftones of yellow we can create red. By using this process many other colours can be created which is why CMYK is often referred to as 'Full Colour Process'.

HIGH PRECISION PRINTING

Our printing procedure in which we can print by different screens almost an image in CMYK or 8 printing colours on a balloon. Even images with extreme fine screens and colour registration, can be printed in this technique in up to 8 printing colours which is not possible in the normal silkscreen print. High precision printing is a more time-consuming printing technology than the standard screen print, it is more expensive. Using this technology we can print grids and colour gradations and reproduce your logo on a CMYK basis virtually identical to the original, in up to 8 separate colours. With this printing technology photo realistic balloon is possible.

Extra large printing surface, marvelous printing result, bright colors, perfect register on latex balloon. Ideal for point of sale, long lasting decorations, latex balloons can be custom printed in up to 8 color or CMYK designs on 1 or 2 sides same or different artworks.

STORAGE

The balloons made of pure latex can be stored for 1-2 years. It is best though to store them in a dark room at a minimum temperature of 15-20°C in case the balloons have hardened due to storage at low temperatures, they must be preheated sufficiently, until they are soft and flexible.

Environment Friendly Balloons

Our balloons are made of natural rubber and are fully – 100% biodegradable. The balloon begins it's process of degradation once inflated and this process is accelerated by exposure to environment and to light. Under similar environmental circumstances a latex balloon will biodegradable approximately the same time as an oak leaf.
